Course overview

Short description

For a long time, negotiating in humanitarian operations was felt as compromising on principles and norms. It is only recently that it was found as reinforcing humanitarian impact to consider the interests of all sides and the context in order to make a deal.

This executive short course focuses on the design of adapted negotiation strategies in humanitarian settings and the development of participant's self-awareness. It links real situations experienced by participants with the latest concepts around humanitarian negotiation, meaning negotiations aimed at securing access, assistance and protection for civilians facing humanitarian emergencies. It is organised in collaboration with the Centre of Competence on Humanitarian Negotiation (CCHN).

Objectives of the course

At the end of the course, you will be able to:

- Identify the frameworks and principles on which humanitarian negotiation is based;
- Define the objectives, specificities and ethical challenges of humanitarian negotiation;
- Select and manage the most appropriate interaction and communication styles with a variety of stakeholders, including non-state armed groups, during a negotiation process;
- Discover your own personal style as a negotiator;
- Identify ways to negotiate in case of abducted staff
- Understand and apply a set of tools and techniques developed for humanitarian practitioners

Workload

Around 20-25 hours of work each week, including:

1. Asynchronous self-study activities (such as case studies, videos, recorded slideshows, readings, etc.)
2. Synchronous live sessions

Thematic structure of the course
